Elizabeth S. Bolman

moved to Cleveland in August of 2017 to assume the position of Elsie B. Smith Professor in the Liberal Arts and Chair of the Department of Art History and Art at CWRU. She is working closely with the Cleveland Museum of Art to enhance the Joint Program between her Department and the CMA, and to build the Keithley Institute for Art History. In the late 1990s, Dr. Bolman discovered an overlooked early Byzantine monastic church in Upper Egypt, and directed a wall painting conservation project there which yielded spectacular results. She will be speaking on the project and the transformative effect that the monument has had for our understanding of early Byzantine art history.
